MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR

As I look back on the past year, I am amazed by what the Manitoba Eco-Network has accomplished. The year was not an easy one given the funding challenges; however, the organization managed to stay the course and set a positive new direction for the future. This was only possible with the hard work and dedication of our Executive Director, Glen Koroluk, who only started in this position a few months before the 2019/2020 fiscal year began. Glen, along with our Strategic Planning Committee, pushed forward the development of a new set of strategic goals for the Eco-Network. These goals were created given feedback from our member groups and supporters on what they valued about the Eco-Network, what we could improve on, and what they want from us as an organization in the future. We heard the need for the Eco-Network to engage, organize, and bring forward the voice of Manitoba's environmental community on policy or regulatory discussions. And so, we now have a policy committee that has been busy submitting responses to various proposed policies/regulations based on feedback from the environmental community. We also heard from our members that the Eco-Network should work to support and build capacity within the environmental community, which led to the creation of several projects including the Building Community Climate Resiliency project. Ultimately, the development of the new strategic goals confirmed that the work that the Eco-Network does is still relevant and ensures that we will continue to be relevant in the future.

I'd like to thank all of the Manitoba Eco-Network board members for all you do to help guide the direction of the organization, and all our volunteers, donors, and other supporters who have helped us get through these tough times.

MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

We no longer receive long term core funding from the Province of Manitoba, which had enabled us to run programs such as Climate Change Connection, the Water Caucus, and the Manitoba Environmental Youth Network, and to manage the EcoCentre for many years. Our programs are gone, and Climate Change Connection is making a go at it, as a stand alone organization housed by the TIDES Canada Initiative.

Given the fiscal realities and the fact that our environment is under constant duress, we are fortunate that the transition we are taking as an organization is guided by the many outstanding and dedicated volunteers on our Board of Directors and active on our committees. The transition involves engaging with like minded organizations in the form of partnerships to develop projects, resources and actions to help the environmental movement in Manitoba.

We are still exploring, but we are happy with two new initiatives we started this year – the Building Community Climate Resiliency project, in which Phase One is looking at some of the gaps in knowledge on climate resiliency in Winnipeg, and our other new project – Navigating the Law to Protect the Environment. While we don't know what direction these projects will take us, we have been happy with the results so far.

The transition for us has also meant the development of a new strategic plan to guide us for the next three years. The plan reiterates some of our core historical functions we have taken over the past 35 years such as collaboration, building capacity, educating and engaging the public in environmental awareness and actions. But the plan also tells us to diversify our revenue opportunities, and review our membership and governance structure to see if there is room for improvement and/or change.

In closing, I would like to thank everyone who has helped the MbEN in this year of transition: the board, the staff, all of our funders and our volunteers. Thank you!

Glen Koroluk
